POST EVENT REPORT

An important program to familiarize staff with D Space's basics was the Faculty Development Program on Introduction to D Space, which was hosted by the Library Advisory Committee on May 9, 2024. Under the direction of Mr. Dixon, a D Space management expert, the workshop gave attendees a thorough overview of all the features and capabilities of the platform. Participants gained knowledge about managing digital information, creating metadata entries using Dublin Core standards, and using the D Space interface with ease. Because of Mr. Dixon's experience, the learning process was easy to follow and participants were able to understand the fundamental ideas and real-world uses of D Space in educational settings. The training focused on the value of D Space in digital libraries and institutional repositories, equipping staff to take advantage of its features for effective academic resource management and distribution. Overall, attendees gave the event positive comments, expressing gratitude for the insightful knowledge they had obtained and the training's application in real-world situations.

POST EVENT REPORT

All attendees found the most recent ECD Software Class, with speaker Dr. Prince Peter, to be insightful and powerful. Dr. Prince demonstrated his proficiency in dental education and software development by guiding participants through the nuances of the ECD learning platform. Attendees learned a lot about the software's UI, patient record management features, and appointment scheduling functionalities throughout the course. The hands-on approach and captivating presenting style of Dr. Prince made sure that participants understood the topics and were actively participated in the process. His openness to answering queries and offering clarifications further improved the educational process. Because of Dr. Prince experience and the extensive material addressed, participants departed the workshop with information and abilities that they could put to use.

POST EVENT REPORT

The informative talk given by Dr. Jain Mathew, Head of the Department of Conservative Dentistry and Endodontics, is summarised in the post-event report. Because of Dr. Jain's experience, attendees gained essential knowledge about the most recent developments and best practices in the field of endodontics. The endodontic treatment participants acquired a thorough understanding of the basic concepts, sophisticated methods, and state-of-the-art technologies. A positive learning atmosphere was created by Dr. Jain's captivating presentation style and extensive expertise, which encouraged insightful conversations and information sharing. Attendees left the workshop with a solid theoretical and practical skill set that will enable them to advance their endodontic clinical practice.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

- Promote Effective Assessment: Provide teaching staff with the necessary skills to design, administer, and evaluate OSCE and OSPE exams, ensuring that they are accurate, dependable, and consistent with learning objectives when assessing clinical competency.
- Enhance Instructional Strategies: Teaching personnel should be outfitted with state-of-the-art techniques and strategies that prioritise enhancing clinical reasoning, procedural skills, and communication competency in order to assist students in passing the OSCE and OSPE exams.
- Promote Continuous Improvement: Through cooperative peer review, feedback mechanisms, and self-evaluation processes, teaching faculty members can cultivate a culture of continuous improvement, which will enhance assessment methods and student learning outcomes in dental education.

POST EVENT REPORT

The ultimate purpose of Dr. Anila S's highly successful teaching faculty development programme on "OSCE & OSPE" was to increase faculty competency in administering and evaluating objective structured clinical examinations. Through in-depth lectures, interactive workshops, and practical demos, participants gained significant insights into the design of exams, standardised patient encounters, and feedback systems tailored for dentistry education. Dr. Anila's presentation style and expertise captivated the participants, fostering a cooperative learning atmosphere that encouraged knowledge exchange and skill improvement. The course's relevance, effectiveness, and potential to enhance dentistry education teaching practices were proved by the overwhelmingly positive response received from participants. By building on the momentum produced, the organisers hope to continue supporting faculty development initiatives and advancing excellence in dentistry education.

POST EVENT REPORT

A fruitful and enriching programme overseen by Dr. Sunny Kuriakose is highlighted in the OBE E-Learning Course post-event report. The ideas of Outcome-Based Education (OBE) and how they are applied in online learning settings were thoroughly explained to the participants. Dr. Sunny Kuriakose's experience promoted a learner-centered approach by offering helpful advice on creating, implementing, and evaluating online courses that are in line with OBE frameworks. Participants' awareness and proficiency in integrating OBE in online education were improved through lively debates and information sharing during interactive sessions. Participants expressed confidence in using OBE principles to improve student learning outcomes in their online courses, and feedback revealed high satisfaction with the program's content and delivery. In order to improve the calibre of online learning, there is a strong desire for ongoing cooperation and the application of OBE techniques.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Program goals:

1. Gain a better grasp of digital processes and applications in dentistry by introducing participants to the basic ideas and technologies that underpin digital dentistry. Examples of these technologies and concepts include intraoral scanners, CAD/CAM systems, 3D printing, and digital photography.
2. Examining Clinical Applications: To show the possible advantages and effects of digital technologies on patient care and results, acquaint participants with the clinical applications of digital dentistry, such as digital impressions, computer-aided design (CAD) for restorations, virtual treatment planning, and guided implant surgery.
3. Navigating Workflow Integration: To enable a smooth transition to digital dentistry practice, provide participants insights into how digital technologies can be integrated into current dental workflows and practice management systems. This includes workflow optimisation, staff training, and implementation strategies.

POST EVENT REPORT

The "Introduction to Digital Dentistry" e learning course held at St. Gregorios Dental College on 29.09.2022 provided a thorough introduction of important digital technologies and their uses in dentistry, and it concluded with success. Under the direction of the faculty from Dentcare Laboratory, the event included thought-provoking talks, hands-on activities, and lively debates that gave participants important knowledge on digital imaging, CAD/CAM systems, intraoral scanning, and 3D printing. The advantages of digital dentistry, such as better accuracy, efficiency, and patient outcomes, became clearer to the participants. Attendee feedback was overwhelmingly favourable, emphasising the practical applicability of the course and its potential to revolutionise dental workflows. In the future, the organisers hope to build on the momentum created by the course by providing opportunities for advanced training and encouraging dental professionals to keep working together to embrace digital technologies for better patient care.

POST EVENT REPORT

The Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) held an online E-Learning Course for Faculty Members on February 11, 2022, and it was a really educational experience. The goal of the session, which was facilitated by Mr. Nanda Lal T. S., Training Manager at EBSCO Information Services, was to provide faculty members with the comprehensive knowledge and abilities they need to make efficient use of EBSCO's resources. Through engaging talks and hands-on demonstrations, participants gained knowledge about using EBSCO's platforms, executing sophisticated search techniques, and obtaining full-text information. Thanks to the competence of Mr. Nanda Lal T. S., the learning process was smooth and easy for participants to understand important ideas and functionalities. The training promoted a cooperative learning atmosphere where participants could share knowledge and hone their skills. All in all, the programme was a huge success, giving faculty members the knowledge and skills they needed to successfully incorporate EBSCO's resources into their academic, research, and teaching efforts.

POST EVENT REPORT

The "Critical Evaluation of an Article & Presentation Skill Workshop" was held on January 28, 2021, in the seminar hall of St. Gregorios Dental College, which is home to the Department of Orthodontics and Dentofacial Orthopaedics. These instructors aimed to improve their ability to critically analyse scientific publications with a focus on improving presentation; the target audience consisted of postgraduate students from the university who are eager to advance their academic careers. The leader of it was Dr. Joseph John. In addition to case studies and a group discussion on how to efficiently prepare for writing, attendees learned about various methods of reviewing articles and how to improve presentations.

Positive feedback on the workshop's participatory format and insight delivery was especially appreciated by the students. This reveals that attendees significantly improved their evaluation of the calibre of scientific publications and their ability to deliver engaging presentations.

POST EVENT REPORT

Paradigm of Posterior Restoration, the CDE program conducted at St. Gregorios Dental College on 14.01.2021 offered a comprehensive exploration of contemporary approaches to dental restoration techniques, materials, and technologies. Renowned speakers including Dr. Jojo Kottor delivered insightful presentations, covering topics such as direct and indirect restorations, adhesive techniques, and minimally invasive dentistry. Hands-on workshops allowed participants to practice various restoration techniques using state-of-the-art materials, fostering practical skills and confidence. Interactive discussions and real-life case studies provided opportunities for knowledge exchange and problem-solving. Additionally, the technology showcase highlighted the latest dental innovations, offering insights into cutting-edge tools and materials available in the market. The program was attended by the postgraduate students, staff and interns from St. Gregorios Dental College. Overall, the class facilitated a deeper understanding of posterior restoration principles and techniques, empowering participants to enhance their clinical skills, improve patient outcomes, and stay abreast of advancements in the field. Faculty members provided individualised feedback to students during the entire session focusing on the diagnosis and management of cleft. The lecture received positive feedback from the students and other staff members. Students reported increased desire to know more about the advancements in managing cleft lip and palate.

POST EVENT REPORT

On April 20, 2020, at 10:00 a.m., a programme called "Insight To Powerpoint Presentation" was held in an online platform (Zoom meeting) with the goal of improving the skills of teaching staff and interns.

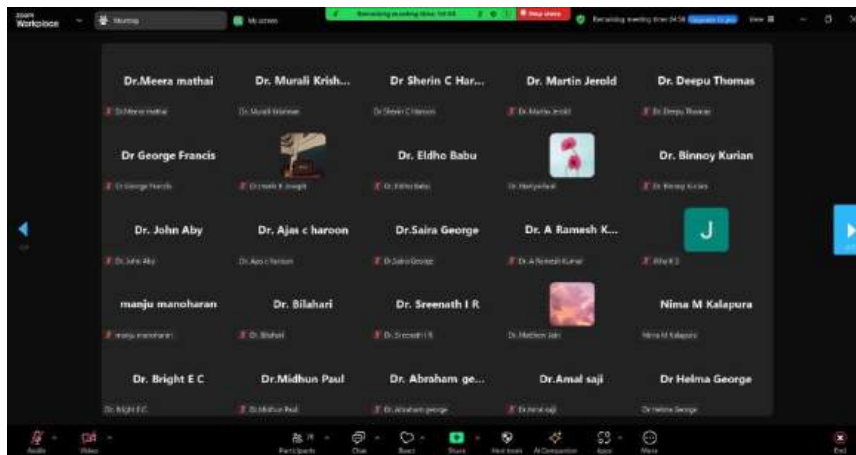

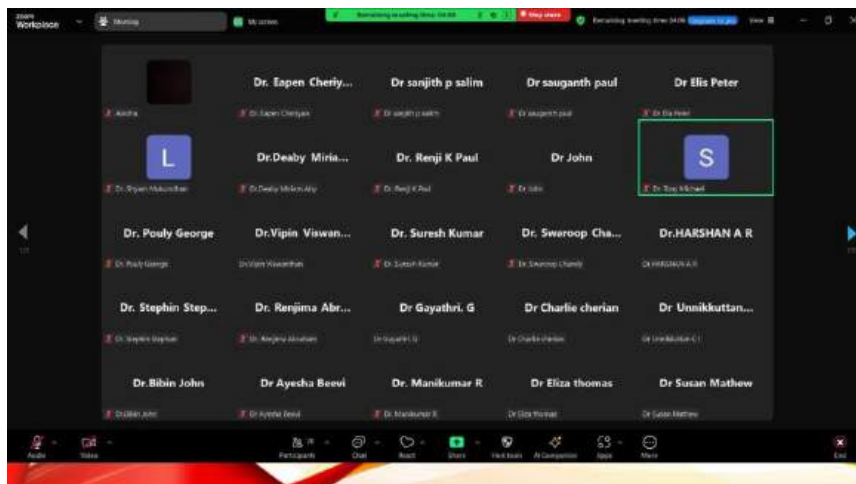

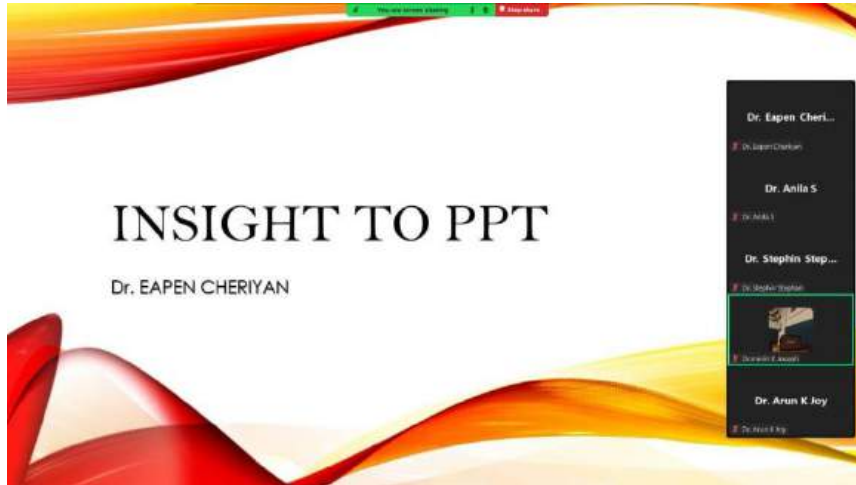

The session was given by speaker Dr. Eapen Cherian at 10:00 a.m. Teachers and students received training on how to use PowerPoint presentations effectively as well as new approaches and tactics for creating captivating presentations. The course concentrated on offering useful advice, pointers, and methods for using PowerPoint as a communication tool in a variety of work environments. The programme was well received, and the participants expressed gratitude for the practical relevance of the content and the participatory learning environment. It is advised to provide follow-up sessions or extra materials in the future to assist continued PowerPoint presentation skill development.

POST EVENT REPORT

The Department of Conservative Dentistry and Endodontics held a seminar in their department seminar hall on November 20, 2019, with the theme "RECENT ADVANCES IN POST SYSTEMS," for postgraduate students and faculty members. Dr. Prasanth Dhanapal, a well-known endodontist and dental surgeon from Kochi, started out by outlining the function and significance of post systems in restorative dentistry, emphasising their part in giving dental prostheses structural stability and guaranteeing long-term success. In addition, he talked about the most recent developments in post design, such as the production of tailored posts using CAD/CAM technology and the usage of post shapes for improved stability and retention. The characteristics and benefits of the most current developments in post materials were discussed in the lecture. The topic provided new clinicians with an understanding of current clinical applications and procedures. The postgraduate students listened intently to the speaker and showed great interest in him. The students found the seminar to be an invaluable resource for their next academic projects and research pursuits in this area.
